HUGHES IS NEGOTIATOR

President Relying on Secretary of State to Formulate Foreign Policy.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Preliminary conversations between the governments of France and the United States conducted by former Premier Viviani and President Harding, Secretary of State Hughes and Under Secretary Fletcher lead to the conclusion that important developments will result from the conferences.

The American government has taken advantage of the opportunity to say informally what it thinks of the moral influence of the League of Nations and the likelihood of American partnership especially when that league has thus far disregarded protests made by the United States on matters vital to America.

In other words, former Premier Viviani's enthusiasm for the league has been countered to some extent by pertinent questions concerning the meaning of the recent refusal of the League of Nations to heed America's protest concerning the Japanese mandate in the island of Yap and other mandates in the Near East.

Brookly speaking, former Premier Viviani has learned already some fundamentals of American policy that must be taken into consideration if Europe expects American partnership. One of these principles is that the United States must not be left in a position less free in world diplomacy than she had before 1914. Indeed, the principle of the "open door," which means freedom of commercial opportunity for American merchants, is paramount and the denial of that opportunity in the extension of mandates has been seized upon by the Harding administration as an argument against the kind of league that is in existence at present in Europe.

The details of just what kind of an association of nations the Harding administration prefers has not yet been worked out. It is too early for that. Thus far the conversations have merely covered general principles. But the spokesmen of the United States government have made it clear that traditional American policy calls for freedom of action along the line of means partnership with other nations for the preservation of peace but no hard and fast rules requiring the use of military force. If military force is to be in a position to judge for itself whether the cause is just and whether it is a matter in which the United States need participate.

The tendency is to let the nations preserve peace in European spheres of influence whereas the United States will correspondingly look after such outbursts in this hemisphere as threaten the peace and commerce of the rest of the world.

Secretary Hughes incidentally will carry on the principal conversations with former Premier Viviani and will advise President Harding of the status of each conference so that when the distinguished Frenchman sees the president again he will have had a chance to learn the fundamentals from Secretary Hughes. Mr. Harding himself is relying on Mr. Hughes to frame a foreign policy and therefore the real negotiations may be said to be going on at the department of state rather than the White House somewhat of a contrast to the experience in the last administration when the strong personality of Mr. Wilson and his insistence on handling foreign policy dwarfed the importance of all the state department officials.

VIVIANI DODGES
PACT DISCUSSION

Washington—France, through her envoy, Rene Viviani, stood before the United States Friday seeking the "sympathy, understanding and moral support" of this country.

French problems outlined broadly and without specific presentation of detailed issues, were laid before four United States senators when M. Viviani met them at a dinner given Thursday night by Ambassador Jusserand.

Reports received from the meeting indicated that its character was largely social, that both Viviani and the senators spent a good part of the evening in appraising each other and that language difficulties prevented any intimate discussion of Franco-American relations.

In the exchange of after dinner pleasantries, however, Viviani sought to emphasize the French point of view on the post-war situation, so far as can be ascertained, no mention was made specifically of the league of nations, or of any new association. Neither did the subject of the French debt enter the conversation.

Viviani indicated his belief that America does not fully appreciate France's post war position nor realize the extent to which he believes Germany is seeking to evade the peace terms.

FARMERS MEET IN CAPITAL TO FRAME
NATIONAL POLICY

Relief From High Railroad Rates and Control of Packers Is Sought.

Washington—Representatives of all organized farmers and livestock producers will meet here Friday week of the new congress to frame a national farm policy and present it simultaneously to President Harding and congress.

Their aim is to form the most compact working organization of agricultural interests which has ever operated in this country. They will ask:

Relief from present high railroad freight rates.

Amendment of the Esch-Cummins railroad law in the interests of the public and consumer.

Packer control legislation.

A curb on grain gambling.

Emergency tariff and tax revision.

National aid to the cooperative marketing plans.

The railroad question next to the emergency tariff is the most important from the farmers' and livestock men's viewpoint. Senators Capper, Kansas, and other farm-state legislators said Friday.

"The farmers of the west are greatly concerned over the present ruinous freight rates," said Capper.

"They want something done to reduce them. They see the rates go up and the railroads continue to assert that they are unable to put them themselves on a paying basis. The present rates mean that small shippers cannot send their products to market and make any money."

"There is much sentiment among the farmers for a repeal of the guarantee provision of the railroad law and for an amendment to prevent the interstate commerce commission from regulating intrastate rates."

Emergency Act Is Invoked as Miners Strike in Protest Against Wage Cuts.

London—Great Britain unlimbered heavy artillery in the shape of an emergency act Friday to fight a threatened industrial tie-up.

Coal miners were on strike, their mines left unprotected with a possibility that some of them may be flooded.

Transport and railway workers were planning meetings for next week with every prospect that they will join their allies, the miners, in a general strike against wage cuts.

The government's proclamation of an emergency caught the strikers by surprise. Under the act which was passed last fall, the government can mobilize all national resources.

Individuals or organizations found guilty of violating the act can be severely punished under orders emanating from the cabinet.

The first step in the application of the act probably will be the assignment of military forces to protect the threatened mining property. Later, if the transport and railway workers carry out their strike threat, the government can put its forces to work in preventing paralysis of industry.

EXTRA! EXTRA
JOHNSON WANTS
WORLD LEAGUE!

New York—Every landlord in the country announced Friday that rents would be reduced immediately.

Jack Dempsey Friday turned down an offer of $1,000,000.08 to box a one armed man.

Flo Ziegfeld said Friday that chorus girls should wear long skirts and shirt waists with high collars.

Cables from Paris Friday stated that Sarah Bernhardt would retire from the stage at once.

The Annulment Association of Bootleggers declared Friday it would observe the prohibition laws.

The American public Friday took the stand it would not read another word of the Stillman divorce scandal.

All members of the New York legislature Friday offered to resign in favor of socialists.

Not a job seeker tried to see President Harding Friday.

The former Kaiser Friday offered to pay the German reparations out of his own pocket.

Today was April first.

Two burglaries netting only about $6 have been reported to the police, but no clew has been obtained as to the identity of the thieves.

The robberies occurred within one door of each other. The first was Wednesday night, when the George C. Steidl meat market, 730 Lawe-st., was entered and about $6 taken from the cash register. A second attempt to rob was made last night at the William Behrns grocery, 806 Lawe-st.

A window had been removed with the evident intention of entering the building. Nothing was missed from the establishment and it is believed the thieves were frightened away before they could take anything.

Italy Willing To JOIN A NEW LEAGUE

Washington—Italy is ready and willing to discuss with the United States a new association of nations, Senator Vittorio Rolandi Ricci, Italian ambassador, declared Friday in an interview.

"Italy is desirous of peace for herself and others," Ambassador Ricci said.

"She is willing, therefore, to discuss with any one of and all of the powers any form of combination of the powers which will better insure peace to the peoples of the world."

"Therefore, my government has no need to give me any special charge to discuss here at the present time one form of government rather than another of a league of nations or any modification of the existing league."

"If and when a concrete project will be formulated by any power that may take up the formulation of such a program and this project is presented to the Italian government for its consideration, Italian government will examine it with the greatest desire to pacify the world once for all."

Chicago—Federal authorities Friday sought Arthur Barry, head of a stock concern bearing that name, on a charge of fleeing 1,800 persons out of more than $100,000.

The disclosure followed a state investigation. Barry's activities are said to have extended from Springfield, Mass., to Denver, Colo., and at various times "fly by night" offices had been opened in St. Louis, Denver, Chicago and Pittsburgh. State investigators said the slogan of the firm was "give a customer any kind of stock he wants."

HARDING CABINET
GRAPPLES WITH RAILWAY PROBLEM

Details Are Withheld But Cabinet Members Assume Hopeful Attitude.

Washington—Plans for solving the railroad problem have been agreed upon by President Harding and his cabinet. It was learned following Friday's cabinet meeting.

Cabinet members expressed themselves as confident that the discussion would bring relief. Details were withheld temporarily but an announcement is expected from President Harding Friday or in the immediate future.

The railroad situation is understood to have been discussed from all angles by the cabinet. The question of rates and their bearing upon the business depression, the disadvantages which high rates are inflicting upon farmers and the possibilities of increasing traffic through rate reductions are all understood to have been discussed.

Railroad executives propose wage cuts and assert that the employees can be induced to accept them provided the administration will take a firm stand.

Employees declare they will not accept reductions and that an attempt to enforce them will be followed by a rail tie-up.

COURT GRANTS
MRS. STILLMAN
$7,500 A MONTH

Letters From Divorce Defendant to Husband Will Be Kept Secret.

HUSBAND TO TAKE APPEAL

Judge Morschauer Says Sensational Case Might End in a "Draw."

By United Press Leased Wire Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—The Stillman divorce suit will result in a deadlock if both sides prove the charges they have brought against each other, Justice Morschauer declared here Friday.

The statement was made in a ruling by which the court increased Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman's temporary alimony from $5,000 to $7,500 a month and granted her $35,000 for counsel fees and $12,500 for expenses in obtaining witnesses.

Morschauer, in these words, pointed out that neither side can obtain a divorce if their joint accusations are upheld.

If these charges are established, the plaintiff and defendant will find themselves in the same position as before the commencement of the action, except that they will have had their day in court, or, perhaps several days.

The principal charge made by James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank, is that the two-year old Guy Stillman, youngest of his wife's four children, is the son of Fred Beaurvais, French-Canadian guide.

Mrs. Stillman bases her counter-charges on the allegation that Stillman is father of Jay Leeds, two-year-old son of Mrs. Florence Leeds, former chorus girl.

Letter Is Barred

The court ruled that Mrs. Stillman's "hysterical" letter to her husband, said to form the chief basis for the latter's charge that Guy Stillman is the son of Beaurvais, is "inadmissible."

It was also decided that the two letters Beaurvais is alleged to have written to Mrs. Stillman after Guy's birth in which he said to have referred to "our child," were "privileged."

As a consequence these letters cannot be made public by the court at this time, as they are not connected with Mrs. Stillman's motion for additional alimony and counsel fees.

Morschauer emphasized that his ruling Friday was confined solely to the alimony motion. This left the important story of the judge's ruling, the grounds for the decision and the alimony and counsel fees granted Mrs. Stillman are excessive and that the letters which Morschauer held to be inadmissible had a bearing on the alimony.

Announcement of decision to appeal was made by Dolanecy Nicoll after studying the decision with his associate in the case, Cornelius J. Sullivan.

The attorneys will argue, they said, that the letters held to be inadmissible were sufficient to show their case against Mrs. Stillman and to prove that they would have little chance of defending the suit. If she had a defense, they said, she is not entitled to alimony.

The appeal will act as a stay in the proceedings. Whether Mrs. Stillman will continue to receive the $5,000 alimony now being paid her will depend upon her counsel, the lawyers said.

Mrs. Stillman did not accept the March payment of $5,000.

SOLONS AGREE TO BOOST PAY
TO $750 A YEAR

Salary Increase Measure Probably Will Be Submitted to Referendum.

MARKET BILL TOO DRASTIC

Governor Blaine's Fight for Economy Beginning to Get Results.

By United Press Leased Wire Madison—After a long discussion during which three amendments were voted down the assembly went on local amendment increasing the salaries of members from $500 for the two year period to $750 annually. This amendment has been adopted by the senate and upon final passage in the house will be submitted to a referendum vote of the people providing the succeeding legislature approves it.

The assemblymen agreed with a few exceptions they were underpaid and poor men were actually barred from running for the legislature because of the impossibility of living on the income.

"I am opposed to this amendment because I don't believe public service should have a financial reward," said Assemblyman Matthew J. Janesville.

"I don't ask any of you to agree with me. It is just a little private theory of my own."

"We heard about the dollar a year men during the war. They made millions," replied Assemblyman Thomas Bartingale, Chippewa Falls.

"I want the salary fixed so poor men can come to the legislature," said Janesville.

Take Teeth Out of Bill

Trade commission features to the marketing bill, being considered in the assembly, will be eliminated according to the decision reached by a caucus of the majority faction. The bill is to be amended to strip it of power to control business, except such enterprises as are directly allied to agriculture.

The bill, originating in the department of markets, granted the department broad and sweeping powers, assemblymen said, which would allow the commissioner of markets, the governor and the attorney general to exercise control over every kind of business in the state, no matter how far removed from agriculture.

The bill is scheduled for next Thursday and advocates will make a strong fight for its engrossment.

All Want Economy

The majority caucus also proposes to go the governor one better in the matter of economy. The governor caused the joint finance committee to withdraw the appropriation bill of $300,000 annually to the industrial commission from the executive office to avoid a veto. He suggested a reduction of $15,000 annually in the allotment. The caucus will not only grant the request but will reduce it an additional $35,000 or a total of $250,000 annually.

Leaders refused to say whether appropriation reductions on the floor of the assembly would be a rule hereafter.

It is understood, however, the governor may have the occasion to veto appropriations bills because they are insufficient rather than because they carry a greater aggregate sum than the executive believes is necessary.

TAKE UP WORK IN COMMERCE BODY

Retiring Officers Tell What Has Been Accomplished in the Last Year.

Reports from the year just closed and suggestions for the coming year's work were heard at the final meeting of the old board of directors of the chamber of commerce in the French room of the Sherman house Thursday evening. The five newly elected directors were guests at the dinner and were welcomed to the directorate.

They are Harry Ingold, R. W. Getschow, Robert O. Schmidt, E. A. Schmalz and Seymour Gmeiner.

Edward C. Spencer, representing the Mississippi Valley association and the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence tide-water association, spoke briefly, urging support of the tide-water movement, telling how the entire Wisconsin and Michigan front on Lake Michigan would become ocean seaports. He said the only opposition to the project came from New York, where the motives were selfish, but that this feeling was diminishing.

He named men like President Warren G. Harding, Herbert C. Hoover and others who were supporting the proposition.

Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the publicity committee of the Appleton Building and Loan association, addressed the directors on a plan of cooperation to gain more members in the association and thus help Appleton out of its existing difficulties. His suggestions were discussed afterward, but no definite action was taken.

Report on Progress

Verbal reports were given by committee chairmen telling what had been accomplished during the year and naming the things yet to be finished. This was done to acquaint the new directors with the work in progress and give them an insight into what was ahead of them.

John Hettinger told of the community welfare committee's work and said two important projects remained to be done. One was city planning and the other passage of a pure milk ordinance.

William Fountain, chairman of the rural affairs committee, spoke of cooperation offered to bring the Durce Jersey hog sale to Appleton, holding a corn show and boosting fairs. He said the biggest thing Appleton could do was ahead of them.

Go After Conventions
Daniel P. Steinberg spoke for the publicity and convention committee, saying its aim should be to try to bring every convention with an attendance of 400 or less to Appleton. This was considered the best way to advertise Appleton. He told of the success of the recent real estate convention and also of the issue of booklets about Appleton.

A. K. Ellis, chairman of the industrial committee, told of the investigations of industries wanting to come here, and of the industrial survey. Establishment of a retail sales course that had gained national prominence was named by John R. Didderich, chairman of the retail trades committee, as one of its big accomplishments. He also told of the information bureau which will be ready for operation soon, and spoke of the cooperative merchandising events held here. The finance committee also made a brief report.

Secretary Corbett was directed to obtain copies of all bills being introduced in the legislature and to keep them on file here.

Each retiring director expressed his appreciation of the value of the association with other men in promoting the city's interest. Lothar G. Graef, president of the chamber, thanked the men on behalf of the organization for their splendid service and expressed the hope that they would be as earnest in their work for the chamber as in the past although they were no longer directors. The retiring directors are G. B. Buchanan, John R. Didderich, E. J. Marshall, William Fountain and John L. Hettinger.

DEATHS

THOMAS FIRNER

Thomas Firner, 85, died of infirmities Friday morning. He was born in Germany and had been a resident of Appleton since 1874. He is survived by five children, Mrs. Theodore Buss, Edward and George Firner, Appleton; Mrs. Henry Woykan, Oshkosh; and Mrs. Jet Perkins, Spencer, Wis. He is also survived by 20 grandchildren. His wife died eleven weeks ago. The funeral will be held at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon from the late home and at 2 o'clock from St. Paul Lutheran church. The Rev. T. J. Sauer will have charge of the services.

WILLIAM LEUBBEN

William Leubben, 63, who suffered a stroke of paralysis some time ago, died Thursday at his home on Oklahomaville. He was born in Cedarburg, Wis., and came to Outagamie county with his parents at the age of eight years. For the last 19 years he had made his home in Appleton. Survivors are his widow, and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Louis Fingel and John Leubben, Appleton; Mrs. Ferdinand Blake, and Gerhard and Frank Leubben, Greenville; Mrs. Herman Meyer, Birmahood; Mrs. Henry Burr and Louis Leubben, Neenah.

The funeral will be held at 1:30 Monday afternoon from the late home and at 2 o'clock from St. Paul Lutheran church. The services will be conducted by the Rev. T. J. Sauer. Interment will be in the Greenville cemetery.

Isn't It A Fact

Madam, that you are often times ashamed to invite friends to eat at your home because of your dining room furniture? Either the chairs are shabby and need to be re-upholstered; or the table is shaky; or perhaps the buffet is marred. What a difference would be made if these old pieces could be replaced with new—or maybe your dining room lacks a serving table or an "ever handy" tea cart.

We have a complete stock of just these pieces—in period or otherwise. Beautiful in their graceful lines and durable—made of the best materials and at prices that would appeal to you.

We would consider it a privilege to have you call and let us show you our stock.

APPLETON TAKES LEAD IN FIGHT ON CITY MARKET BILL

Municipally Supported Markets
Are Unfair to Merchants,
Bonini Charges.

Louis Bonini and Hugh G. Corbett returned Thursday from Madison, where they attended a hearing by a joint committee of the assembly and senate on four bills advocating municipal markets. Mr. Bonini represented the Appleton meat dealers and addressed the committee setting forth the objections voiced by the butchers.

Bill No. 251A introduced by Assem-

Misses his Boat
In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peotter, George Peotter, who has been expected home from South America daily for two weeks, said he missed the boat on which he intended to sail and that he would not be able to get another until March 22. The voyage requires two weeks which will land him in New York early next week. It is possible that he will not reach Appleton until a week later as he will be detained at his company's office for several days.

produce and sell direct to the consumer. Any plan of giving the merchant virtual "cut throat" competition was strenuously objected to. The city should take over the whole industry or nothing, it was said. City officials from Oshkosh and Superior favored passage of the laws, but consumers from those places were heard.

Anything that would shorten the route from producer to consumer was favored by merchants, but it bliman Mark Catlin of this city, and No. 12S introduced by Senator Kleist permit any city to establish municipal stores. The Arnold bill No. 334S and Pearson bill No. 372A would permit markets only in Milwaukee. Mr. Catlin spoke on his bill and other legislators also were heard.

Milwaukee men including Mayor Hoan argued for passage of the bills and were supported by a group of women. The state retail grocers' association representatives opposed it. The time allowed for discussion of the bill was up and the committee planned to adjourn without hearing the Appleton men.

Mr. Corbett protested against this action, saying northern Wisconsin had not been heard from. The committee consented to give additional time and Mr. Bonini made his address.

Unfair to Merchant

The Appleton man told the committee that meat dealers charged the lowest possible prices consistent with making a reasonable profit. None of the butchers were millionaires, he said, nor were they wealthy as a result of their business. He said he represented a group of dealers in open competition with one another and not a trust. Establishment of municipal markets would mean that the meat dealer would be obliged to pay taxes toward an enterprise that would wreck his own business because any losses incident to sale of goods at cost would be borne by the taxpayer under the provisions of the proposed law.

It was emphasized at the hearing that merchants would raise no objection should a building be provided where farmers could come with their

MY FIRST JOB

H. A. SHANNON
Clerk of Court

My first job was one of hard work. I was not quite 14 years old when I started to work in the chair factory at a daily wage of 45 cents. That was in 1879 and after I had worked in the factory for some time I decided I wanted to learn the cabinet making trade. I received 70 cents a day when I started on that job. After working in the factory for about two and one-half years, I left and went wood sawing. It was not more than three months after I left the chair factory that it burned down.

Woodsawing was my first man's job. When I struck the boss for the work he said that I couldn't do the work. He said it was a man's job and that he paid a dollar a day. I told him that was just what I wanted so he gave me a chance and I stuck for a few years.

Feeling Depression

The Hayton Pump and Blower Co. is beginning to feel the effects of the business depression which has been sweeping over the country for several months. The company was kept very busy during the war and since, but is now catching up with its orders which have been coming in quite slowly of late. The indications are, however, that present conditions will be of short duration.

of outstanding business success by one of Appleton's native sons, Harry Houdini. The program of the corporation calls for Houdini's appearance as a star in four pictures a year. Production activities are to start soon. Houdini had a lust for tricks and puzzles, eventually developing into a magician. He pursued his work as an amateur, finally reaching the point where he could enter the stage as a professional magician. He has entertained thousands of audiences with his sleight of hand performances and is a leader in his profession.

Entering the movies, he became known as the self liberator who possessed uncanny ability to escape from every conceivable sort of restraining impedimenta. His last appearances were made as a Lasky star in Paramount-Artcraft pictures entitled "The Grim Game," "Terror Island," the "Master Mystery," and others.

Houdini also has brought fame to himself as an author. His latest book is in its second edition and preparations are being made to print a third. It contains a complete expose of fire eaters, heat registers, poison eaters, venomous reptile defiers, sword swallowers, human catfishes, strong men and the like. Houdini also is author of "The Unmasking of Robert Houdini." He left Appleton many years ago.

THE STATE TREASURY

State Treasurer Henry Johnson has prepared a financial statement dated April 1, 1921 which furnishes an interesting side-light on the proposals in the legislature for increased taxation. Mr. Johnson directs special attention to the general fund, which is the one that most truly reflects the financial condition of the state, other funds being more strictly guarded by law. Incidentally, the state treasurer makes the sensible suggestion that the fiscal year should end December 31st instead of June 30th. By closing the books on the former date each administration would stand on its own footing and one administration would not have to be responsible for the last six months of the previous administration, as is the case now.

In discussing the condition of the treasury during the Philipp administration Mr. Johnson says that at no time were warrants presented which were not promptly paid, and that at no time was there juggling of funds in order to meet payments. The general fund on July 1st, 1915, showed a balance of $4,620,195. During the years 1916, 17, 18 and 19 it ranged from two to five million. July 1st, 1920, there was on hand in the general fund $8,748,691. According to the state treasurer's estimate there will be on July 1st, 1921, in the general fund about $11,000,000. In addition there is $800,000 due from the federal government for equipment of troops during the late war, which should be available if effort is made at collection. Only one-half of the railroad taxes is included in this estimate and the last half, falling due next fall, will amount to about $3,300,000.

Mr. Johnson points out what is apparently true that unless the legislature ventures into any new enterprises involving large appropriations the general fund will be ample to take care of the requirements of the state government. Mr. Johnson's opinions on the financial condition of the state are at variance with those of Governor Blaine, whose message to the legislature held the treasury to be in a bad way and as demanding provision for a substantial increase of revenue. If the state treasurer's figures are correct, the treasury instead of being in a depleted or precarious state is in a very healthy condition and ought to be ample for our requirements.

We believe that if the tax proposals before the legislature are carefully analyzed as to their real purposes and effects, it will be found that they are designed to shift the burdens of taxation rather than to merely increase revenue. Certain classes would be practically relieved of state taxation so far as incomes are concerned while others would pay more than they do now. If Mr. Johnson's idea that the true American spirit requires everybody to pay something toward the support of his government, and we believe this is sound doctrine. Thus far the tax proposals before the legislature have not fared very well although the division is close. In a general way the information given out by the state treasurer is a strong defense of the present system and character of taxation. It is also an excellent argument against the tax proposals of the new administration.

BEHIND THE FLOWERS

John Burroughs is dead—and America loses its foremost authority on nature. A picturesque character, at one time claimed exclusively by the cultured, he in recent years became dear to the heart of the common people, largely through moving pictures of his life and work.

No character in our history ever held the same position as John Burroughs. Walt Whitman, one of America's greatest poets, sang of nature. Luther Burbank is nature's wizard, by his discoveries making it more beneficial to man. But the position of John Burroughs is unique—he spread the love of nature as a matter of sheer joy of living.

Like the Frenchman, Fabre, Burroughs penetrated the great philosophy behind the flowers and the elements and interpreted it for his millions of followers.

The great quartet is now broken. There will be no more camping trips by John Burroughs, Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and H. S. Firestone. In these four, each unique in his field, extremes met. On one side stood Firestone and Ford, practical business men. On the other side, Burroughs and Edison, students of nature's mysteries.

John Burroughs is dead, yet John Burroughs as known to the public will live on, through his writings. He leaves the world an invaluable heritage—the love of the Great Outdoors.

THE VISIT OF M. VIVIANI

The visit of Former Premier Viviani of France to the United States is an incident which ought to help to clarify the international situation, and to expedite possibly action by the United States on the League of Nations and the conclusion of peace. M. Viviani has come to Washington with the frank purpose of consulting President Harding and his official advisers on these subjects. After his consultations he should be able to carry back to France an authoritative report on the policies of the American government as to participation in the affairs of Europe.

It is said that M. Viviani would specifically like to know whether United States is willing to enter the League of Nations with article 10 eliminated, along with modifications of other articles to which objections have been raised, and as covered substantially in the Lodge reservations. If unwilling to assent to participation in the League of Nations on any basis, the French representative would like to know what sort of league, if any, the United States is willing to enter. He is particularly concerned about the possibility of the United States making separate peace with Germany and will ask for information on this subject. This, of course, includes the attitude of the administration toward the Versailles treaty generally. He would also like to learn if possible whether the United States will give moral support to the measures adopted for exacting reparations from Germany.

No one except the president can answer these questions. Perhaps even he has not reached final conclusions on some of them. We may assume, however, that they are all receiving the earnest attention of Secretary Hughes in collaboration with the president. The visit of M. Viviani will naturally stimulate the activities of the state department, and may even affect the policies to be formulated. Direct contact with the former premier of France, with a fresh viewpoint of European affairs and problems, may alter predilections that have developed along any given line.

The public's interest in M. Viviani's visit is genuine and extensive. It desires an honest consideration of the European situation and such measures as will tend to improve it and direct the course of events toward enduring peace. It is the American view that if the ends to be desired are substantially in accord, it ought to be possible to reach them through coordinate action, and that concessions should be made to bring about this coordination. M. Viviani's visit should help to promote this mutual understanding and the interests of an effective and righteous peace.

AFTER RAIN

By Alfred Arnold

The sky is bright, like a scrubbed blue floor.
And the air is washed till it's sweet once more;
The grass and the trees, that showed neglect,
And the flower bed by the winter wrecked,
Are changed, and chipper with self-respect.

The paving stones all the way down street
Shine under the passing horses' feet.
And the sidewalks respectable seem to be,
As not ashamed of the human eye,
And almost proud to smile at the sky.

And talkative women are stretching lines
For their new-washed clothes; and veranda vines
Are being trimmed up by whistling men;
And the children are loud at play again;
While there on the bird-house sits Jenny Wren.

Everyone moves in a lively style;
Even a stranger receives a smile;
And doors are open, and windows wide,
And you smell the dinner, cooking inside:
And you know that you couldn't feel sad if you tried.

WAITED 45 YEARS

Jacob of old waited 45 years for his beloved Rachel. But his patience is dwarfed into insignificance by that of a plain American bachelor who waited 45 years for the girl he loved.

J. C. Gibbs, 65, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, is soon to claim his bride, Myrtle Sanderson, 63, who at the behest of her father has spent the most of her life as a missionary in India. Now that her father is dead, she has sailed for home and will wed the man who has waited for her nearly a half century.

During the 45 years, Gibbs has made many trips to India to visit his sweetheart, always returning to his Iowa farm to resume his patient waiting.

True love never dies. It survives all delays, surmounts all barriers, suffers any sacrifice and emerges from every ordeal stronger and more confident than before.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual case cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

A TALK TO DRUGGISTS

Customers sometimes suspect that a druggist is making a tremendous profit when he dispenses a few ounces of medicine prescribed by a doctor. Sometimes patients ask the doctor to inform them how much the druggist will charge for medicine he has prescribed, and if he is a good doctor he generally cannot tell, but bids the patient to trust to the druggist's honesty to set a fair price inasmuch as he is entrusting his very life to the druggist's accuracy and honesty in compounding the prescription. The public little realizes how great a loss the druggist sustains in the stock he places upon his shelves and keeps there until it has spoiled or gone out of fashion—for we have fashions in prescribing, just as they do in the millinery business. And owing to the custom of releasing the doctor's counter to an inconspicuous place in the store, the public scarcely considers the druggist's service in compounding or preparing medicine on prescription a professional service involving the exercise of skill acquired through special schooling. This perhaps explains why people assume the druggist makes a huge profit—they allow nothing for his professional skill.

Almost on a par with the mother-in-law idea nowadays is another staple of the jokesmith, namely that one can scarcely find the prescription department, for the soda fountain, cigar stand, jewelry counter and hairdressing.

For that the doctors, or a certain class of doctors who have time to maintain a stock of medicines and do their own dispensing, may be in part to blame. Yet the better doctors everywhere are rather less commercial and more particular about fitting the medicine to the patient's present requirements instead of trying to fit the patient's troubles to the medicines kept for wholesale dispensing. And there are other reasons than mere commercialism that force some good doctors to dispense more or less medicine.

The proprietor of a leading drug store, a public-spirited citizen, was asked by some club women to give his views on the status of whiskey in medicine. "Whiskey?" he replied, with the smile which is one of his business assets. "That's one thing I never prescribe." And when the doctor's wife later related this morsel to her husband, who had just finished a fight to save the life of a boy who had been poisoned by acetanilide in the "cold cure" put up, recommended and prescribed by that druggist, "absolutely harmless," too, the doctor's comment was an English version of a well known French phrase: "Th' elle ysaaye."

The dispensing doctor would have to be anguished indeed never to fall back on a poison-given tonic when the Nitrogen stomachic suddenly ran out. But a druggist purporting to be capable of telling customers what ails them and what medicine is good for it is simply exploiting ignorance and betraying his profession as well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Twenty-three Skiddoo

I am sixty-three years old. Took the rolls you recommended twenty-three times one morning and became nauseated. What caused it? (Mrs. G. J. B.)

ANSWER—If the doctor gave you some pills and directed you to take six morning and evening, and you took twenty-three, and suffered an upset, would you ask him to explain?

Where to Live Near Boston

Please tell me what places you consider most healthful for one with lung trouble to live near Boston. (A. C. M.)

ANSWER—Any part of Boston would be perfectly satisfactory to live in, so far as air is concerned. Locality or climate, in my judgment, matters not at all in the business of recovery from tuberculosis.

Procedury

I am seventeen, and my girl friends want me to put up my hair, wear dresses that "fit" more, you know the kind, they fit like the paper on the wall, I wear middie, sneakers and one-piece dresses. Am I right in this? They also want me to wear high heels, French heels, which they say are "dressier." They say I should also use some rouge and powder my face more. All these things seem foolish to me. ANSWER—Stick to your course and let them go theirs.

Do Clothes Carry Germs?

I have been given a very fine fur coat which was worn for about a year by a person now dead of tuberculosis. Is there danger involved in wearing the coat? What can be done, if anything, to render the coat safe to wear? (R. W. K.)

ANSWER—If the coat is not visibly soiled, give it a thorough airing for a day out of doors, and wear it without any anxiety. If it is visibly soiled it should be steam sterilized.

Charles Moser died at a resort hospital, where he had been receiving treatment for several weeks.

The trial of L. E. Barnes, assignee of Foxie & Mellor, vs. the National bank of Oshkosh was set for trial before Judge Gilson at Fond du Lac the following Monday. The amount involved was $75,000 which the bank recovered on attachments which the assignee was about to endeavor to have returned to the company.

At the anti-tramp convention at Hortonville the day previous a resolution was passed favoring the establishment of a workhouse in Outagamie county as a cure for the tramp nuisance.

BASEBALL BATS

A boy goes to a store to buy that precious possession, a baseball bat. He finds that the ash stick he paid $1.45 for last year now sells for $3.

If the boy's father is in the lumber business he'll tell his son that the price of ash wood for making bats has been cut in two.

Hardware and sporting goods dealers say that they can't get enough bats—that the manufacturers are only partly filling orders and saying, "You can't have any more this year."

Some of our manufacturers who have idle wood-working machinery might with profit investigate the possibilities of bat making.

Coal Must Change Color

By Frederic J. Haskin

Washington, D. C.—"Black as coal" won't mean anything in the United States in another 20 years, because most of the coal which we will use then will be brown in color and will come in the form of neat briquettes which will not soil the fingers.

This new fuel should also be much cheaper, for the by-products which will be extracted in the process of making the briquettes should more than pay for the cost of mining. A ton of this new coal will yield not only fuel for the furnace, but also fuel for the stove, cooking gas for the kitchen range, fertilizers, high explosives, cosmetics and a number of other things.

The consumer will call the new product brown coal, but the scientist will know it as lignite. Lignite, the poor relation of the black coal known today has been despised and ignored for generations, but it is at last coming into its own as the benefactor of mankind.

The United States has the world's greatest supply of lignite. There are some thousand billion odd tons of it waiting to be mined. The supply is practically inexhaustible. Long after the last piece of black coal has been mined the lignite mines will still be doing business and the many by-products of lignite will be used in the household and shop. Lignite is, according to experts of the Bureau of Mines, the commercial and economic future of the United States.

This heretofore despised member of the coal family, they say, is to supplement the rapidly dwindling petroleum supply of this country. It is well known that about half of our petroleum production is gone and that practically every American oil field is on the producing down grade. Without fuel oil and lubricating oil our Army and Navy in time of war would be so terribly handicapped as to invite defeat. In time of peace our merchant marine and industries generally would suffer.

The Fuel Shortage

The only answer to the problem would seem to be conservation. And America is not conserving. Indications are, according to government investigators, that the consumption of motor fuel will double within the next few years. American industry's life blood is petroleum. The blood is today coursing merrily through industry's veins, but should the supply be exhausted, industry would perish unless some substitute is found.

Lignite is not a newly discovered substance. It is far from a mystery in the scientific world and its wonderful possibilities have long been thoroughly understood. But lignite has been apparently hopeless from a commercial viewpoint. It was known as the softest, dustiest, poorest grade of coal extant. It was known that its physical and chemical characteristics lay somewhere between those of peat and bituminous coal.

It was unmarketable chiefly because it parts with most of its moisture when exposed to the weather and falls into dust much more rapidly than ordinary coal. When first dug it is spongy, containing anywhere from 27 to 29 per cent of water. Once taken from the ground its disintegration is rapid. Unless loaded immediately into cars in zero weather, it slacks with the evaporation of its

Q. What constitutes being an amateur in sports? N. A.

A. This term is so indefinite that it is necessary for one to consult the last rules of the organization governing the contest he wishes to enter if the status of amateur is material. In a general way, an amateur is one who has never competed for a money prize or staked bet, or has never taught, pursued or assisted in the practice of athletic exercises as a means of earning a livelihood.

Q. Is there an animal flower? I. W. N.

A. The term "animal flower" is applied to sea-anemones, or similar polyps on account of the resemblance of their expanded tentacles to flower petals.

Q. Is there a word corresponding to "afterglow" that describes the colored sky before sunrise? G. I. T.

A. The name foreglow is often given to the display of color which often precedes the rising of the sun.

Q. Who was Amurath? D. W. K.

A. Amurath is a name that has been borne by five Turkish sultans. The last, Amurath V, reigned for a few months only in 1876, being deposed because he developed symptoms of insanity.

Q. When are examinations taken for a B. A. degree at Oxford? F. M. A.

A. At Oxford the examinations for B. A. are three in number. The first, responses, colloquially known as "smalls," is taken at or before matriculation. The second, moderations, known as "mods," occurs after one or two years according to whether the candidate seeks honors in it or not; and two years later comes the Snals or greats.

Q. To settle an argument, do trees grow around the outside or clear through the trunk of the tree? D. O. D.

A. The Bureau of Forestry says that trees grow around the outside.

moisture and cracks like dry mud, falling into dust.

Science has now solved this problem by distilling the more volatile substances out of lignite, and pressing the residue into smokeless briquettes. The briquettes are to be used in the family and shop furnace. The distillation products include gas, oil, tars, dyes, fertilizers, drugs, photographic chemicals, acids, perfume, and a variety of other commodities. The practicability of this has been proved. All that is needed is a lignite distilling industry. The United States Bureau of Mines is back of the project, to create such an industry.

The United States holds the greatest deposits of lignite. But there are numerous smaller beds of it scattered throughout Europe. Germany has her lignite fields and is making great strides in the use of them.

Germany the Kaiser. The fuel problem has been even a more serious matter in Europe than in this country. In fact it has been regarded as the most serious obstacle in the road to her economic recovery. Germany is suffering with the rest of the European nations. Her fuel famine has threatened her industrial progress for many years. She is now turning to lignite as a solution, and so is showing the United States the way.

Brown coal mining as now practiced in Germany is simple. As in this country, the coal beds lie very near the surface. Some of the beds are within 30 feet of the surface. Near Halle one may see the farmers mining their brown coal for domestic use. For machinery they use spades. The coal when used in this primitive state is not, of course, the refined, perfected form of fuel it will be when manufactured into briquettes. But it is fuel and the German peasant finds it satisfactory. The German industrial baron, however, sees the possibilities of brown coal as a factory fuel. In Germany there is a brown coal boom. The scientific and industrial forces of the nation are centered upon hmaking lignite a commercial asset.

The scientific German has commercially utilized his lignite beds to some extent for years past, though the industry is spoken of as a new thing. For example, in 1913 Germany exported to the United States, which has the greatest lignite beds in the world, coal tar products made largely from lignite, to the value of $23,000,000. The United States has annually imported for years millions of gallons of creosote oil that are simple distilled elements of lignite. This country has always been one of the chief purchasers of European fertilizers. Lignite is one of the most important sources of fertilizer known. The fertilizer, known scientifically as ammonium sulphate, also contains in great quantities ingredients used in high explosives.

It is also worthy of note that lignite was the source of the saccharine used abroad during the war as a sugar substitute.

Again lignite, through one of its by-products, paraffin, is relieving the soap famine that has annoyed Europe for these past several years. It is hoped by European scientists that paraffin produced from lignite will eventually end the shortage of edible fats by making it unnecessary to use them for industrial purposes.

So Europe has awakened to lignite's possibilities. The United States, encouraged by the Bureau of Mines, is awakening. Our lignite fields are vastly larger than any in European nations. Development is all that is needed. And with black coal at its present high figure there is every inducement for both Government and industry to push that development.

How Wide is Your Front Door?

Is it wide enough to admit the largest Spring Suit value you ever carried home?

Could you stand the shock of seeing a delivery boy walk up to your brass knocker with more actual clothing value than you ever knew existed?

You say you could?—all right—then listen:

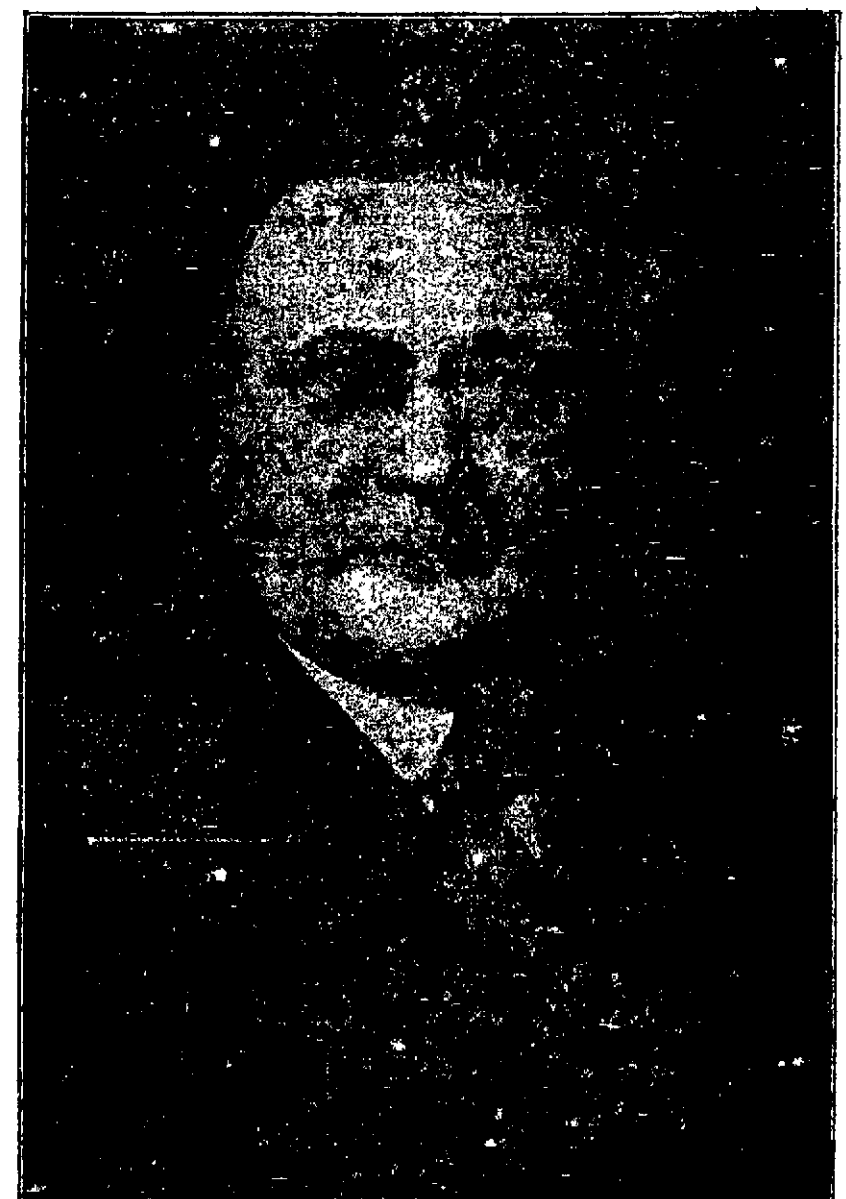

This advertisement greets you with the news of good Spring Suits — made by such famous makers as Hirsh-Wickwire and Campus Togs at lower prices than the clothing buyers of Appleton have seen for the past 6 years.

And in back of the type that set this paragraph is this store—that is perfectly willing and anxious to prove that claim—if you will only elect to give us the opportunity!

BLAINE DEFIES SENATE MAJORITY

Resubmits Name of B. C. Webster as Member of Game Commission.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—Governor John J. Blaine today made a quick response to the challenge laid down Wednesday when the majority in the state senate refused to confirm the appointment of Braxton O. Webster of Delafield as member of the conservation commission.

The governor resubmitted Webster's name to the senate accompanied by a statement in which he took the senate majority to task for raising the issue of party politics.

"Judging from the record made by a majority of the senate, it appears," the statement read, "that the majority lost sight of the fact that a great mass of independent thinkers and voters who think and vote independently never were intended to be excluded from serving their state. It is unthinkable to believe that party affiliation is necessary for public service. For emphasis I repeat that the statute does not provide that the members of the commission must belong to any party."

"However," the governor continued, "if your honorable body is of the opinion that Mr. Webster is not in all respects qualified by reason of training, ability and experience, or is not a man of unimpeachable character and reputation, I will be glad to withdraw his name. Otherwise I feel impelled to resubmit his name for confirmation."

The governor held that while the statute provided that not more than two members of the conservation commission shall belong to one political party, the statutes failed to define party and made no provisions to determine party affiliations.

TEACHERS' PENSION LAW IS ENDANGERED

Special to Post-Crescent

Madison—The entire field of the teacher's retirement fund legislation will be fought out before a committee of the legislature. Assemblyman Robert Caldwell, Lodi, has just presented his bill for the repeal of the Teacher's Retirement Fund law and for the re-payment to teachers of all funds which they have contributed. The committee has been investigating the teacher's retirement fund law and has presented a report on the bill providing for an increase of benefits under the retirement fund act. Upwards of 1,200 petitions have already been received in the legislature from teachers and others interested in education, favoring the new bill which was introduced in the legislature by a special investigating committee.

The fight in the legislature, however, will be close. Assemblyman Caldwell believes that probably a majority of the house are in favor of the repeal of the teacher's retirement fund law. Senator Antoni Kuckuk, chairman of the committee which has had the new retirement fund law in charge, says that unless the retirement fund law is modified it had better be repealed.

The fight in the legislature, however, will be close. Assemblyman Caldwell believes that probably a majority of the house are in favor of the repeal of the teacher's retirement fund law. Senator Antoni Kuckuk, chairman of the committee which has had the new retirement fund law in charge, says that unless the retirement fund law is modified it had better be repealed.

NEW LONDON CHURCH TO COST $100,000

Schoenrock and Sons Awarded Contracts for Constructing Edifice.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London—Walter Sigi has purchased of A. G. Jennings the residence on East Beacon-ave. formerly owned by W. E. Cline, taking possession April 1. Mr. Sigi is the senior member of the firm of Sigi Brothers, clothiers, located in the Bank of New London Block, and came here from Hortonville last July. Previous to being in Hortonville he was associated with W. O. Thiede in Appleton.

Bids for erection of Emmanuel Lutheran church were opened. F. Schoenrock Sons was found to be the successful bidder and the building committee entered into contract for the construction of a beautiful building on the site of the present structure which will be razed immediately. The bid was $74,850 exclusive of lighting, heating and plumbing. These items, with seating and other furniture and a new pipe organ will make the total cost of the new church more than $100,000. Victor Thomas of this city, who designed the building and prepared specifications has been retained as supervising architect by the committee.

Mayor E. W. Wendlandt transacted business in court in Appleton, on Wednesday.

A 2-days farmers institute, held in the city hall Tuesday and Wednesday, was attended by many farmers. It was conducted by County Agent Dance assisted by several experts from the university of agriculture at Madison.

The Bank of New London and the Second Ward Securities Co. recently purchased $150,000 worth 6 per cent bonds of the City of New London and sold the entire issue in two days. About $50,000 was disposed of in New London, delivery to be made after approval of legality is made by the banks' attorneys.

H. S. PUPILS VOTE FOR BETTER STREET CAR SERVICE HERE

Improved Hospital Facilities and a Railway Terminal Are Urged.

Additional and more frequent street car service has been found necessary by the embryo champions of good government and a better city in the democracy class of the high school. They would have the common council and the railway commission get busy at once on a plan to establish a loop in the north end of the city, and one or two intermediate lines. Fifteen minute car service is specified. The vote was 20 to 1 in favor of this improvement.

Adequate and complete hospital equipment and a nurses training school are urged in another resolution adopted 20 to 0. The ideas advanced are mostly those embodied in the proposed new building of St. Elizabeth hospital.

A third resolution whose advantages and disadvantages were threshed out in warm discussions was the elimination of lost time and inefficiency by erection of a railway terminal for all roads at Appleton Junction, and asking the railway companies to detour their tracks around the city. This drew a vote of 21 to 0.

Below are the resolutions adopted.

200 Bed Hospital
A resolution concerning hospital facilities.

Be it resolved that the city of Appleton make appropriations for the following:

Section I—A new general hospital to the extent of 200 beds.

Section II—That said hospital be provided with four operating and an X-ray room with technicians for both.

Section III—That said hospital be located, and its administrative staff determined in accordance with the best judgment of the members of the Outagamie County branch of the American Medical association and in accordance with the plan of the city planning commission.

Section IV—That there be an organized hospital staff of medical men working in cooperation with the hospital authorities.

Section V—That there be a nurses' training school in connection with the hospital.

Section VI—That there be a hospital for contagious diseases run in cooperation with the above mentioned hospital.

More Street Car Tracks
A resolution concerning the street car service in Appleton.

Whereas, the street car service in Appleton is inadequate, and at the present time is unable to cope with the demands made upon it,

Be it resolved, Section I—The city council take the necessary action preliminary to cooperating with the state railway commission with a view to obtaining the following improvements in the street railway facilities in Appleton:

1. That present city cars be replaced by medium sized inter-city cars.

2. That we have a loop district, formed by an extension of the Mason-st. line to Second-ave., thence east on Second-ave. to Owaissa-st., thence north to present Pacific-st. line, with intersecting lines from Second-ave. to College-ave., on State-st. and on Morrison-st.

3. That the inter-city and city street lines shall run two cars every half hour from a quarter to six to a quarter to eight in the morning and from a quarter to eleven to a quarter to one at noon, and from a quarter to five to a quarter after six at night.

Section III—Any extensions on the present lines which are desired must have the sanction of at least a majority of the voters of said ward or territory.

Railway Terminal
A resolution providing for a railroad terminal in the city of Appleton.

Whereas, the present time lost and inefficiency caused by the indirect transfer of freight and passengers from one line to another, and

Whereas, a union depot would remedy that situation, and

Whereas, a well built union station would increase the attractiveness of our city, especially to those just arriving by railroad, and

Whereas, the present Appleton Junction is the most logical and convenient place for such a building, and

Whereas, the expense would be offset by the return therefrom, therefore

Be it resolved, that it is the opinion of this body that the Wisconsin Rate Commission should authorize the construction of such a building, and

Be it further resolved that present tracks be detoured about the city at the discretion of the city planning commission, and that the depots and adjoining property be purchased by the city and be converted into parks also at the discretion of the city planning commission.

In the last 10 years wages of farm laborers have more than doubled.

This is the first divisional oratorical contest ever held at Lawrence and is considered to be a high honor by colleges and universities. There are only two divisional oratorical contests held annually. The three highest in each of these contests will meet in contest for the finals at some college in South Dakota in May. The winner of this final contest will be the champion collegiate orator in 12 states.

Three judges will be chosen from three different states. Visitors are expected from most of the leading Wisconsin colleges to hear the contest. Great preparations for the event are being made by the committee which is zealous for the success of the meet.

WAUKESHA LOSING ITS MINERAL WATER FAME

What has become of Bethesda water from the famous Bethesda springs at Waukesha which was so extensively used in Appleton a quarter of a century ago? The stock of no drug-store, restaurant or saloon was complete without a supply of it.

Appleton people who have lately returned from Waukesha claim the springs are dry and the buildings in a dilapidated condition. This has been the situation for some time and no attempt has been made by the owners to keep up the property.

Bethesda water was at the peak of its popularity during the world's fair in Chicago in 1893. So much of it was used by people from all parts of the country that a company was organized to pipe it to the Windy City, but its plans were never carried out.

The country going dry a year ago caused many other well known mineral waters to disappear from the market.

Fond du Lac Farmer Gained 20 Pounds

R. P. Lamb, R. F. D. 1, Fond du Lac, Wis., well known farmer, is enthusiastic about Kozak, the new appetizer, system-builder and tonic. He said Monday:

"Since taking Kozak I have gained 20 pounds in weight. Before I was a sufferer from stomach and kidney troubles which sapped my strength and vigor. The pains in my back and kidneys were terrible. My food didn't digest right but caused distress. Recently Mr. Masliko, my druggist, told me about what Kozak was doing for local sufferers and I decided to try a bottle. My what a change! Kozak soon had me on the mend. Now I am relieved of my troubles and feel fine."

Kozak, the Master Medicine, is sold by Schlitz Bros. Drug Co.; Kaukauna Drug Co.; New London, Spearbraker; Hortonville, Gittler; Neenah, Marsh.

MAKE CHANGES AT EAGLE ALLEYS

The Eagle home is undergoing a rapid change. All upstairs rooms are now gleaming clean and white in their new coats of calomine and paint. New curtains have been supplied for the windows. No work has been done on the main hall floor as it is protected with a canvas carpet that is removed when occasion requires a bare floor. Chinaware and cooking utensils are furnished by the lady Eagles. The expect to be able to prepare any kind of dinner when the new equipment is installed.

furnished is the bowling room. It has not lacked attention, however, as an electric piano was furnished some time ago. A new alley was purchased in Milwaukee and will arrive in about two weeks. After it is installed all alleys will be resurfaced and put in condition for next season's bowlers. The ladies' room adjoining the alleys is another new feature of the Eagle alleys. It is partitioned from the main bowling room. New furniture has been ordered and will arrive in the near future.

Rejuvenate Your Wedding Ring

If you had a gown that had become old-fashioned, but the material of which was still very good, it would be the natural thing for you to have the gown made over into one which style was very up-to-date.

Why should you not do this with your wedding ring which has gone out of style?

Have your old-fashioned ring made over too, into a ring that is up-to-date and also beautiful and attractive.

Ask us about it.

GORMAN SIGNS CONTRACT FOR BOUT WITH M'GOORTY

KENOSHA BOXER EAGER TO MEET M'GOORTY HERE

Gorman Will Have Slight Advantage in Weight Over Oshkosh Pugilist.

Bud Gorman, Kenosha heavy-weight boxer, has signed a contract to meet Eddie McGoorty, noted Oshkosh pugilist, in the Oshkosh Athletic Club, Gorman's contract and forfeit money was received on Thursday.

McGoorty has notified Johnston of his intention to meet the Kenosha man here but his contract and forfeit money has not been returned. It is expected in a day or two.

This will be the first boxing match in Appleton in several years and fans are wondering what the outcome will be. Both men are past members at the art of wrestling and both have good reputations as boxers.

Gorman probably will outweight McGoorty by a few pounds but the latter's speed and knowledge of the game will offset the weight advantage. Both men pack powerful kicks in both hands with McGoorty having the advantage of knowing better how to get it over.

Mr. Johnston said two good preliminaries will be staged in addition to the main bout. Negotiations for these matches are nearly completed.

PADDOCK TELLS HOW HE GAINS SPEED

California Sprinter Attributes His Records to Great Leg Power.

By United Press Leased Wire. Los Angeles, Cal.—Charles Paddock, University of Southern California sprint king, who just broke the world's record for the 220 yard dash, explained to the United Press Friday how he managed to become the "speediest man on the face of the earth."

"There is no secret to it," said the Trojan runner. "My success is attributable to good condition and a powerful leg drive. "I run with my legs ahead of me, not behind, as most men do. To develop a strong drive and a perfect stride, I always try to keep my feet and legs in front of me. Too many runners make the mistake of throwing their bodies forward. The faster they try to go the more they tilt themselves and consequently they lose their driving power."

Paddock said he believed that under favorable conditions might be able to equal his performance last Saturday at Berkeley when he covered the 220 in 20.45.

Paddock expects to run again on April 23. It has not been definitely settled, he said, whether on that date he will compete against Drake University in Iowa or against the University of Washington at Seattle. The following week he expects to take part in the Pennsylvania relays.

BELIEVE ST. PAUL RENTS WILL TAKE TUMBLE SOON

TURK IS WILLING TO WRESTLE HILL

Mahmout Believes He Can Throw Local Man Twice in Ninety Minutes.

Appleton wrestling fans who are convinced that George Hill is SOME wrestler will be rather peeved at the estimate which Emil Klank, manager of Yussif Mahmout, the "Terrible Turk" has of the Appleton grappler. Klank is anxious to match his man against Hill and is so confident that he is willing to sign an agreement that Mahmout can throw Hill twice in one hour and thirty minutes.

Joe Coffey of Coffey and Herman, best known wrestling matchmakers in Chicago, however, believed Hill can give the Turk all that he is looking for and tried to advise Klank to go a little easier but the Turk's manager is insistent he will bring his man here and agree to have him throw Hill twice in 90 minutes.

Promoter Elmer Johnston has entered into negotiations with Klank and it is probable a match will be arranged for either April 18 or 20. The Turk is working hard to get in shape for matches with Zbysko, Caddock, Lewis or any of them. The championship in three months is his ambition and men who know the wrestling game say he will be wearing the crown within that time if Lewis will give him a match.

Hill laughed when informed of Klank's offer and said he was willing to meet the Turk on any terms. Prospects are quite favorable for this bout to close the season.

JOHNNY BUFF IS AFTER JIMMY WILDE'S CROWN

New York—America at last has a real flyweight champion and a candidate for the world title now held by Jimmy Wilde of England.

He is Johnny Buff of Jersey City, who clinched his claims to the smallest calibre boxing crown here by a sensational knockout of Abe Goldstein in the second round last night.

Goldstein whose only serious reverse had been his defeat by Joe Lynch, present bantam king, was a slight favorite when the scheduled 15 round bout started Thursday night.

Both weighed in under 110. The Hebrew took the lead in the first session. At the start of the second round, Abe believed he had Buff going and dashed in with a right swing. But the champion started a right simultaneously and beat Abe to the punch.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT $16.80 — Written, prepared, published and paid for by Judge Edgar V. Werner, Shawano, Wis.

The following is a statement published in an editorial of the Shawano County Journal, March 10, 1921:

"Let us be fair to Judge Werner. Judge Werner has made a very commendable record. He has given the Tenth Judicial Circuit a good, fair, conscientious judicial administration during his first term. Morally and by a common law tradition of Wisconsin he is entitled to re-election to a second term. His experience during his first term has fitted him for better judicial service."

By virtue of the laws of Wisconsin, a Circuit Judge is a state officer and his salary is paid by the state, he is subject to call by the Chairman of the Board of Circuit Judges created by law to hold court anywhere in the State when necessary, and especially when no cases are ready for trial in his own circuit. Judge Werner has taken care of the Tenth Judicial Circuit and in addition thereto has tried many important cases in other circuits. He has held court at Kenosha, Racine, Madison, in the several Circuit Court Branches in Milwaukee, and in the Municipal Court Branches in Milwaukee, Marinette, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Sturgeon Bay, Merrill, Wausau, Stevens Point, Eagle River, Ashland and Superior in addition to the work pending in the counties of his Circuit, Shawano, Langlade and Outagamie. Every County Seat is a Court Chamber of his respective counties, and litigants have had their legal business disposed of in their own county by Judge Werner as the law provides."

There are 59 active members of the Bar in the Tenth Judicial Circuit. Forty-six of them have signed Judge Werner's nomination papers and declared therein that they intend to support him.

The following correction was made and published in the Appleton Post-Crescent, January 24, 1921:

"Judge Werner and his friends have taken exception to a statement made in a recent editorial in the Post-Crescent. They claim that attorneys and litigants of Outagamie county have not been put to inconvenience on account of the Judge's residence in Shawano. "After an investigation, the Post-Crescent finds that practically no inconvenience has been experienced, and in fairness to Judge Werner this newspaper is glad to make this statement as the facts."

The Sunday Sentinel of Milwaukee, on March 27, 1921 published this statement:

"A judge on the bench should have, even in our elective system, a reasonable security of tenure, and should not feel that he owes his office to party choice or favor, or that he has any political obligations to discharge in the conduct of his office."

Judge Werner's record speaks for itself.

FARGO GATHERING OF ROTARIANS WAS BEST EVER HELD

Appleton Delegates Bring Back Enthusiastic Reports of District Meet.

Every previous convention of the Fifteenth district was outdone by the one which just closed in Fargo, N. D., according to W. O. Thiede and George R. Wettengel, president and secretary respectively of the local Rotary club, who returned Wednesday evening. They were highly elated over the success of the gathering.

Mr. Thiede and Mr. Wettengel were sent as delegates of the club. Lee C. Rasey and Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Schiller also attended. Mr. Rasey planned to visit friends in Duluth before returning and Mr. and Mrs. Schiller will continue on to Ketchikan, Alaska, to visit relatives.

"There was a much larger attendance than at the Wausau convention a year ago," said Mr. Thiede. "The Wausau convention and the spirit of friendliness and cordiality were so exceptional that we believed nobody could ever outdo them. We have to give Fargo credit for this very thing. They planned the convention jointly with Grand Forks and the whole affair was beyond the expectations of everyone who attended. The people could not do enough for us, even after the convention was over."

Stop at Minneapolis
Minneapolis Rotarians entertained the entire Wisconsin delegation over Sunday while en route to Fargo. Nothing was left undone to look after their pleasure and comfort. They were treated to dinners and entertainment and left Minneapolis aboard a special train in jovial spirits.

Fond du Lac had the largest delegation, considering size of the club and distance traveled. There were 22 out of 46 members in attendance. The city was awarded a silver loving cup.

Duluth had 87 members present, clad in blue and white checked mackinaws and distinctive hats. They came to Fargo in force to demand the 1922 convention, and their request was granted. They promise to outdo the Fargo Rotarians, but Mr. Thiede believes they must hit a fast stride. The attendance probably will break all records, because Duluth is within convenient reach of all parts of the fifteenth district.

North Dakota cities showed their life and enthusiasm by sending large delegations clad in special costumes. Bismarck Rotarians were clad in prison garb. Delegates from Devils Lake were equipped with bright red suits including cape and hood, to resemble the personage after whom their city was named. Williston had a wild aggregation. Each man wore a cowboy hat and many wore shaggy chaps over their trousers. Armed with pistols and blank cartridges, they punctuated the oratory in convention speeches with shots and used the guns for other demonstrations.

W. O. Thiede was given prominence at the convention by the Fargo newspaper, the Forum, which published his picture and informing its readers that he was president of the Appleton club. The paper got out a special edition devoted entirely to the organization and the meetings.

One of the most forceful speakers, in the opinion of the Appleton delegates, was Robert H. Timmons, Wichita, Kans., third vice president of the International Association of Rotary. He defined Rotary as meaning a "sincere and earnest, but joyful effort on the part of any business and professional men to reduce idealism to practical, adaptable, workable machinery and to put live, red human blood into altruism." He urged his hearers to take an interest in city, state and national government, to acquaint themselves with the farmers in meetings where there was "no axe to grind," to help cities to better school systems and to do everything possible for them.

Another speaker who took well was the Rev. H. Garfield Walker, Devils Lake, N. D., who explained the nature and workings of the Non-Partisan League as it functioned in his state. The league emerged from his attack without a leg to stand on. He proved conclusively that the Dakotans had blindly taken up the cudgel of Socialism under a new guise.

Wisconsin again has the district governor within its boundaries. A. H. Zimmerman, Wausau, was unanimously elected to succeed James H. Kaye, Marquette, Mich.

A well known farmer living near Appleton will be careful of his conversation hereafter while walking along College-ave.

Negotiating with another farmer for the sale of a horse, the two men walked from West College-ave. to a livery stable downtown where the animal was to be examined. They talked about the good qualities of the horse as they walked.

"She's a good little chunk," said the owner, "and she's got some chubby legs that make her a dapper when she goes down the street. You ought to take her while you've got the chance."

Wow! No sooner had he emitted the words than a good looking miss just

LITTLE FREIGHT IS MOVING ON RAILS

"The railroad business is shot to pieces," said A. W. Liese, local agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Co. Thursday, "and if it were not for pulpwood coming in there would be very little freight moving."

Mr. Liese said at times things look quite encouraging, but it does not last. A day considered fairly good in the freight business is usually followed by several quiet days. Merchants are not buying in quantities and call for their freight as soon as it arrives.

The railroad yards are often so badly congested with pulpwood that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company has frequently found it necessary to enforce embargoes on shipments

WOOL PRICE STILL IS BELOW NORMAL

John B. Courtney, proprietor of the Custom Woolen mill, is endeavoring to get caught up with his orders before the new crop of wool makes its appearance which will be in about 46 days. To do this will require considerable extra time.

In keeping with the general downward tendency Mr. Courtney has reduced his prices for carding wool and for manufacturing wool into yarn. "The price of wool is still low and out of proportion to the cost of clothing," he said.

At no time during the year has Mr. Courtney been able to handle the wool as fast as it comes in. While lately there has been a material let up in the amount arriving the floor is still piled high with shipments from all over this part of the state.

Due to mild weather the plant was able to run all winter for the first time in several years. Whenever the temperature gets below zero Mr. Courtney ordinarily has to shut down the machinery, but this year he kept it going continuously.

BONDS OF FOURTH LOAN SHOULD BE EXCHANGED

If you have bonds from the Fourth Liberty loan from which all coupons have been clipped, you must exchange them for permanent coupon bonds before you can collect interest due April 15.

Appleton banks have been notified by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago to have their patrons bring in their temporary bonds at once and have them exchanged. Each bank will receive these bonds, tender a receipt to the owner and send them to the proper office to be exchanged for the new ones containing coupons for the remaining period they are in force.

The notice to the banks says that a large percentage of these temporary bonds still are in the hands of the public. This applies to other issues from which all coupons have been clipped, and which the banks will handle in the same way. The federal banks are prepared to make the exchange promptly.

Fire Dried Seed Corn — Home Grown

Corn that matures in time to escape the early frosts. Only tested varieties that have proven that they will make good in this cool climate are recommended. Our seed is pedigreed. You can depend on its strong germinating qualities. Thoroughly dried in up-to-date drying house.

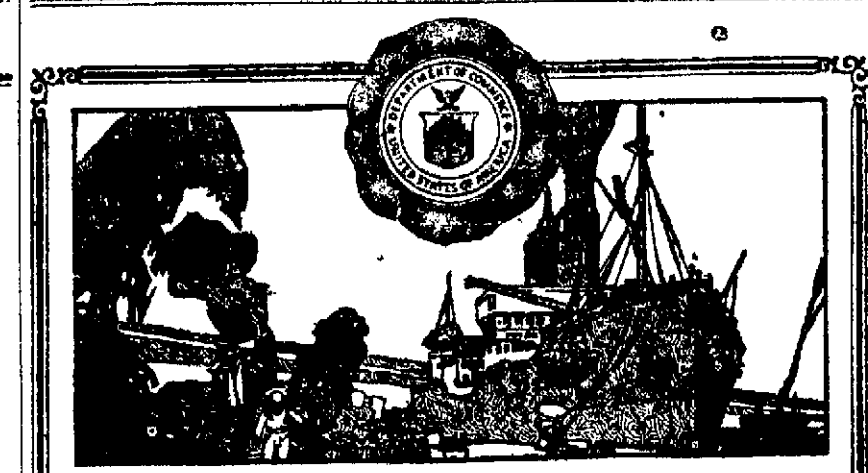

Wisconsin No. 25 is the surest dent corn to mature in upper Cloverland—high yielding and hardy. Wisconsin No. 12 (Improved Golden Glow) is a big producer of ripe ears and silage. Other prominent varieties suited to this region are Improved Silver King, Wisconsin No. 8, Northwestern Dent and Wisconsin grown flints.

Pedigreed Field Seeds
We specialize in these farm and field seeds which reach their highest development in the Cloverland region, including—
Marquette Clovers, Wisconsin Pedigreed Barley, Wisconsin No. 1 Oats, Improved Kherson and Improved Swedish Select Oats, Marquis Wheat, Grimm Alfalfa, Early Black and Its Soy Beans and Choice Field Peas.

Our new illustrated catalog gives faithful descriptions and tells of adaptability to soils and climates. Write for copy.

DEVELOPING A MARKET FOR OUR PRODUCTS

Business expansion is by no means haphazard. It entails study and research. That our country may win in the race for world trade the Department of Commerce keeps its agents abroad to search business opportunities. The details of their work are brought out in the seventh of a series of folders on Our Government which we are distributing each month. The complete series gives a highly interesting and instructive account of Our Government and its advantages to you.

Send your name and address and we shall mail you the stories issued previously and each pamphlet published in the future—one every month.

of the demonstration, one of the largest of its kind in the state. An interesting and instructive address on "Farm Ventilation" was given Thursday by A. T. Logan of the James Manufacturing Co. He showed the importance of bringing enough fresh air into the barn. A cow consumes two pounds of air to every pound of food and water combined. Mr. Logan said, He declared that the majority of barns are not so arranged to provide enough air.

The dairy cow is a community builder, he said. There are two ways of getting profit from stock, by raising the price received by the product and by cutting down the cost of raising. Three ways in which the cost may be cut down are by raising more feed per acre, which involves better cultivation, fertilizer and pure brood seed; keeping fewer and better cows, and by better housing facilities for the cattle.

Machinery has been on exhibit every day of the sale. Experts from the manufacturing plants are here to explain their wares. The usual program of music and motion pictures was shown Thursday. Among the representatives of farm machinery companies who are here are: low hall. The birthdays of five of the members which occur in April will be celebrated. An interesting program has been arranged and lunch will be served.

Chiropractor
Rolfe

Webster says it is a state of being free from disease or pain, a hale and hearty condition. The Chiropractor says it is a condition of being free from disease caused by pressure upon nerves at their point of exit from between joints of the backbone.

Until you know the condition of your spine — what the alignment of each joint is according to a careful analysis — you are not in position to take preventive measures against the diseases to which you are most subject.

Quickly It Relieves

You just rub Musterole in briskly, and usually the pain is gone—a delicious soothing comfort comes to take its place. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Use it instead of mustard plaster. Will not blister.

Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients. They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest. Always dependable.

MRS. REIFENSTEIN, AGED
67, GAINS 25 POUNDS

Declares She Would Like to Put a Bottle of Tanlac in the Hands of Every Sick Man, Woman and Child in This Country —
Never Saw Its Equal.

MRS. EMMA REIFENSTEIN,
337 Webster Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

"I am sixty-seven years of age, but in all my experience I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. Think of it! At my age to gain twenty-five pounds in weight, but that is just what I have done," said Mrs. Emma Reifenstein, of No. 337 Webster-ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

"If I had it in my power," she continued, "I would put a bottle of Tanlac in the home of every sick man, woman and child in this country, for I know what this wonderful medicine would do for them. For almost two years I was almost a nervous wreck. I did not dare to leave the house or even go up town unless my husband went with me. I was afraid to even cross the street and had a feeling of dread all of the time.

"My stomach was weak and easily upset. For days at a time I would go without solid food. I could not rest at night to do any good and felt tired and worn out all of the time. Some days I could hardly drag myself across the room and was so weak and miserable I was ready to give up.

"My health is fine now and I eat anything I want and never have a touch of indigestion. I have never slept better than I do now. My recovery is the talk of our neighborhood, as it was generally believed I could not last but a few weeks longer. This grand medicine has brought me health and happiness and I just can't say enough in its praise."
